Knowledge Rate = number of responses divided by the number of graduates.

2023 Knowledge Rate: 215 surveyed divided by 143 responses = 67%

The following is a list of definitions pertaining to the charts listed below.

The Level of Excellence is derived from graduates who reported being Full-Time Employed as well as those who are attending Graduate School, while Level of Success also includes graduates who are Part-Time Employed, in Post-graduate internships and fellowships, military, as well as missions or other service experience.

Respondents were only given one choice in response and therefore the resulting charts indicate the “type” of post-graduate activity they deem most relevant to them. Because a number of graduates major in more than one discipline, results are a duplicated count, including graduate results from each identified major. The Number of Responses is the total number of graduates who responded to the survey identified as representing a particular department. Full-Time refers to the number of graduates in that department who obtained a full-time position (30+ hours per week) after graduation; those who selected Part-Time obtained a position of less than thirty (30) hours per week. Graduate School refers to the graduates who applied and were accepted into, or were planning to attend, graduate school. Other is a culmination of additional categories, including: Post-Graduate Internship or Fellowship, Mission, other service experience, not seeking, and Military Service.

Finally, those who referred to themselves as Still-Seeking Employment were the graduates who responded to the survey, but have yet to realize an identifiable first destination within six months of graduation. Data was collected via a self-report survey, research from LinkedIn and Facebook media platforms.
